

Allen Eagles Athletic Department

August 2010

Dear Parent:

The AISD Athletic Department in conjunction with the Allen High School has developed a tutorial program for all athletes in an attempt to monitor the student athlete's progress both during their regular season as well as the off-season.

Tutorials will be held either during the first or eighth period classes depending on their schedule. Participation in the program is mandatory for all students with a grade of 72 or below. Participants will be required to attend two sessions per week and attendance will be monitored as students will be required to sign in and out at each session. There will be mandated consequences for missing one or both sessions based on the sport and the discretion of the head coach. If a student misses a third tutorial session in a six-week period, then the student will be forced to sit out one game/competition. The student will then be re-evaluated at the beginning of each six-weeks grading period to see if further tutorial assistance is required.

The program will be monitored by two athletic staff members who have been designated as Academic Advisors for the department. By signing this letter, you are in agreement with the policies of this program.

As indicated above, the consequences of missing tutorial sessions will be at the discretion of the head coach. Included among the materials furnished to your son/daughter in connection with their participation as a student athlete in the AISD was a copy of the range of possible punishments or consequences, unique to the sport in which your son/daughter is participating, which could be imposed for your son/daughter's failure to participate in required tutorials. By signing and returning this letter, you have acknowledged receipt of the range of acceptable consequences for the sport in which your son/daughter is a participant and that, in the event your son/daughter fails to attend a required tutorial session(s), you have consented to the imposition of such consequences by the coach or his or her designee.

If you have any questions concerning this policy, please contact the head coach of your son/daughter's respective sport.

Sincerely,

Steve Williams
Athletic Director
